

Lesson 24: Quiz 3 - Third Person to First Person

Directions: Change each of the underlined words from the third person to the first person by rewriting the sentences in the spaces below. Follow the example:

Example:

She only wanted the best for her sister. It was important to her that her sister was respected. I only wanted the best for my sister. It was important to me that my sister was respected.

He explained his reasons for not identifying himself. He was afraid that the police would have mistaken him for the burglar.

1. _____ explained _____ reasons for not identifying _____. _____ was afraid that the police would have mistaken _____ for the burglar.

She would never forgive herself for her jealous acts. She only wanted what was hers, and it cost her her freedom.

2. _____ would never forgive _____ for _____ jealous acts. _____ only wanted what was _____, and it cost _____ my freedom.

He treated himself very well. It was his belief that the world revolved around him.

3. _____ treated _____ very well. It was _____ belief that the world revolved around _____.

They could not believe this was happening to them in their own home. They began to question themselves if this was all a bad dream.

4. _____ could not believe this was happening to _____ in _____ own home. _____ began to question _____ if this was all a bad dream.