

And ... Action!

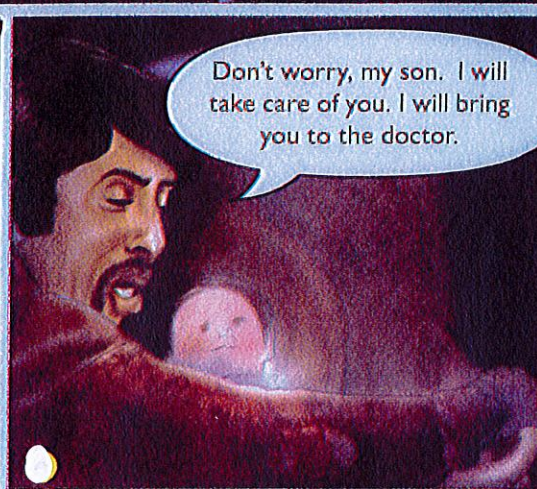

I am sorry, my love.
I can't be with you.
My father said no.

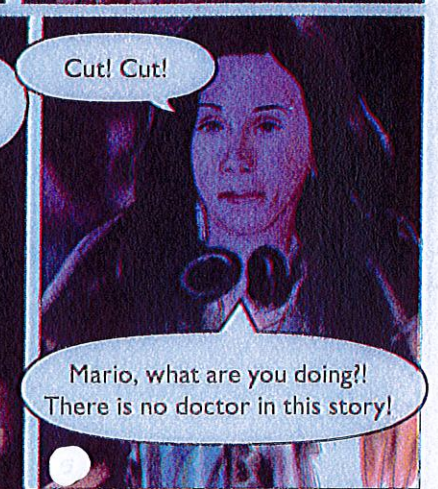

Angela!
No!

What will I do now?
What about my son?
He has asthma!

Don't worry, my son. I will take care of you. I will bring you to the doctor.

Cut! Cut!

Mario, what are you doing?!
There is no doctor in this story!

I know. But, it's too sad.
I want a happy ending!
I want my son to get better.

Happy ending? But Angela left you, and your son has asthma. How can we make that into a happy ending?

You can change the story!
I can help my son get better
and win back Angela's love!

What?! But I don't know anything about asthma. How are we going to do this?

The next day, the director finds people who know about asthma.

Yeah, we all have asthma. And we're healthy. There are things you can do to manage asthma and live a normal life.

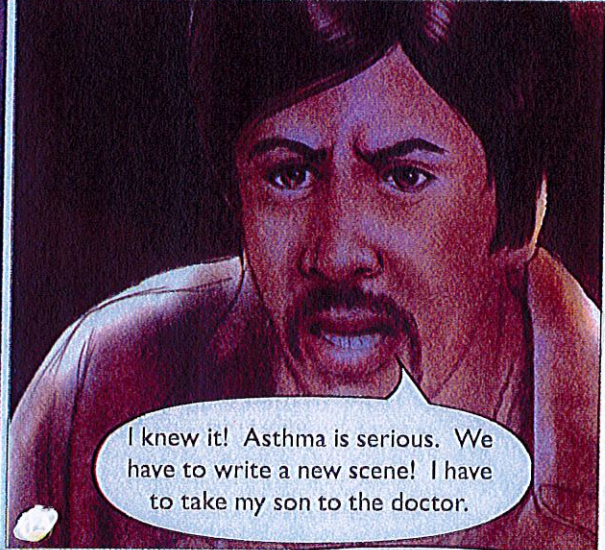

My wife used to smoke, and it made my asthma worse. But when she learned that her smoking was making me sick, she quit. Now we both are breathing better!

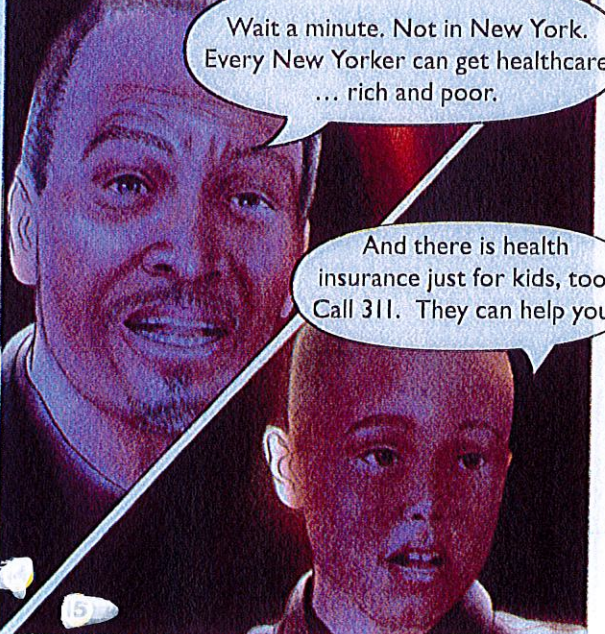

I play basketball after school, but I have to take my "controller" medicine every day.

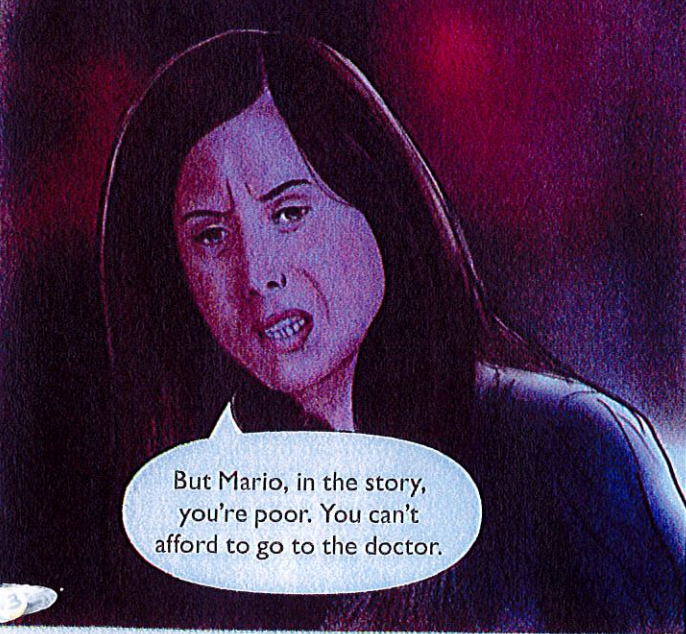

And you have to take your son to the doctor for check ups. Even when he feels fine.

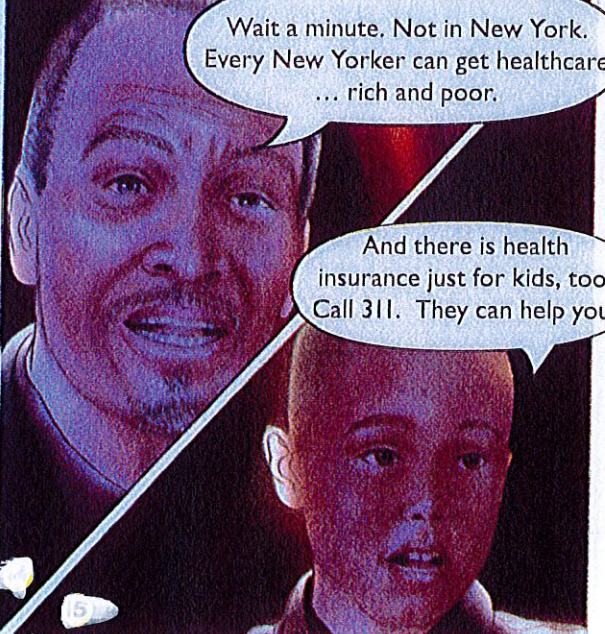

I knew it! Asthma is serious. We have to write a new scene! I have to take my son to the doctor.

Wait a minute. Not in New York. Every New Yorker can get healthcare ... rich and poor.

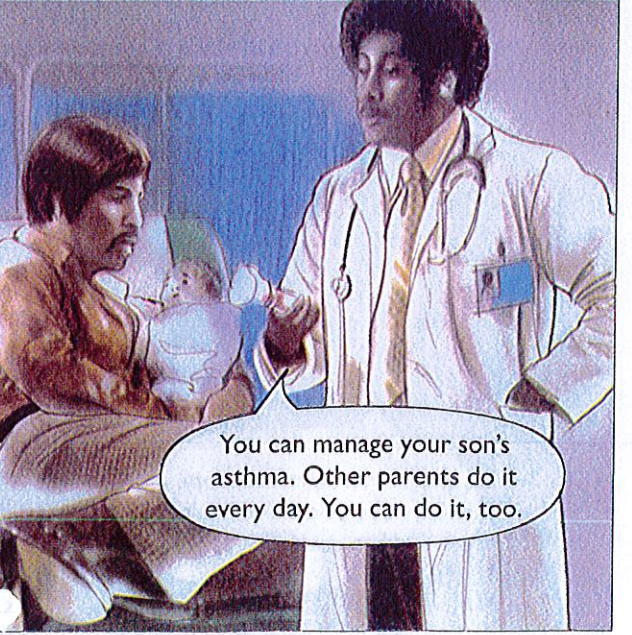

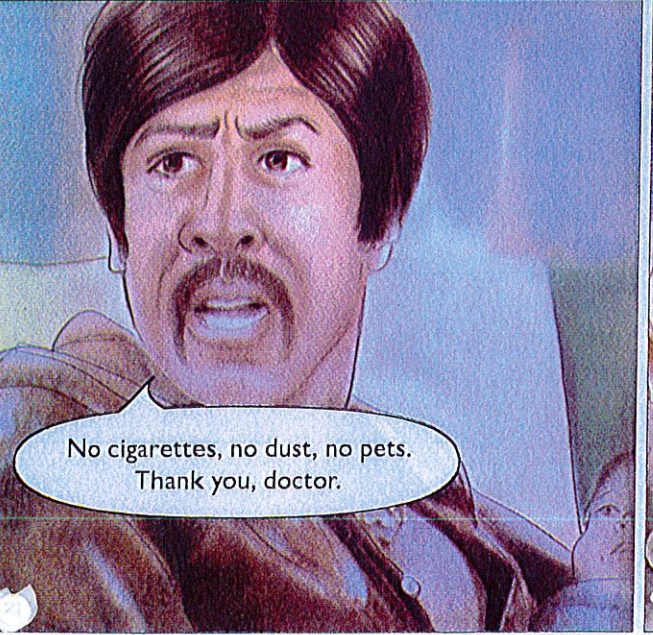

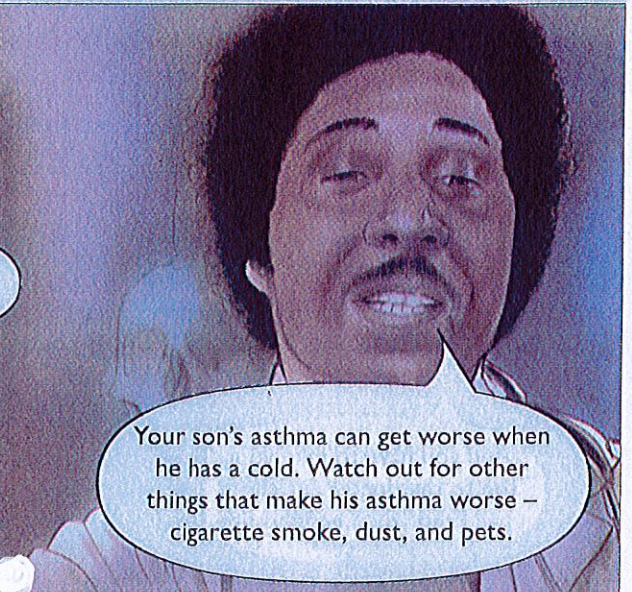

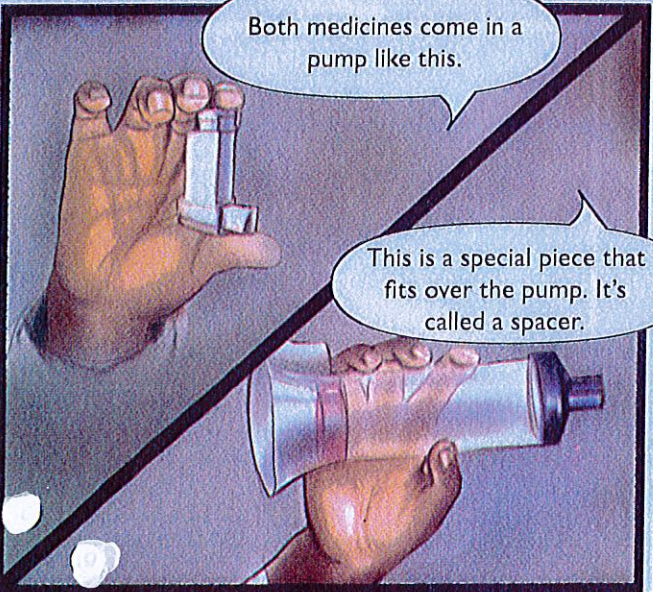

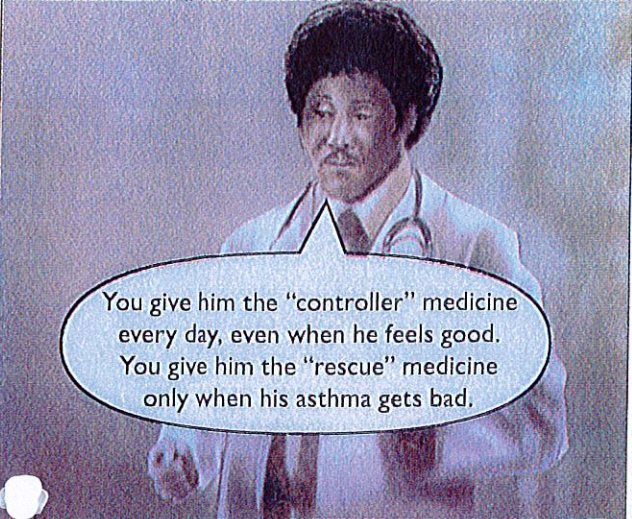

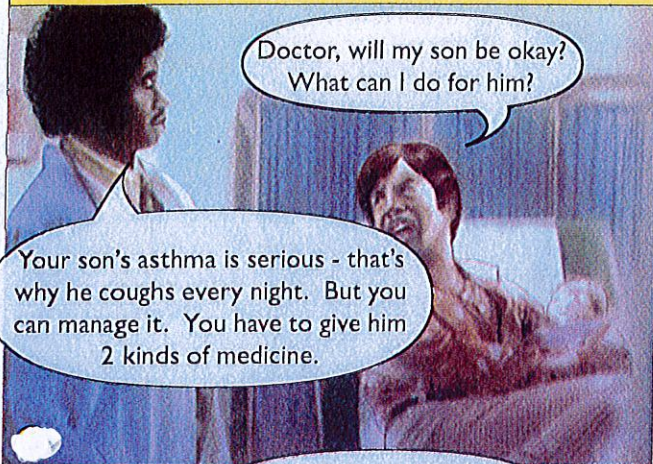

But Mario, in the story, you're poor. You can't afford to go to the doctor.

And there is health insurance just for kids, too. Call 311. They can help you.

Mario has a new scene with the doctor.

The show has a happy ending!

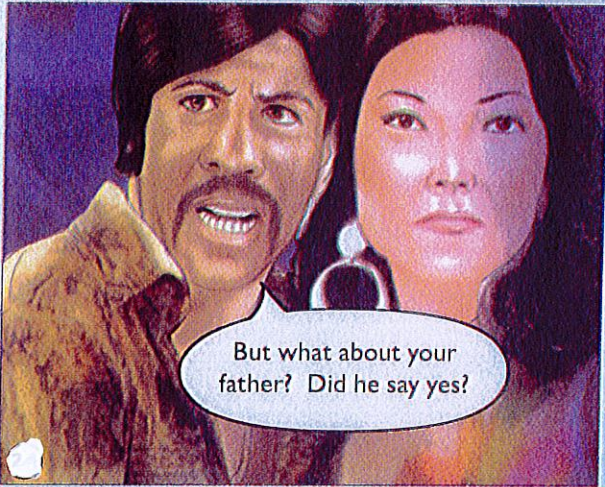

And... Action!

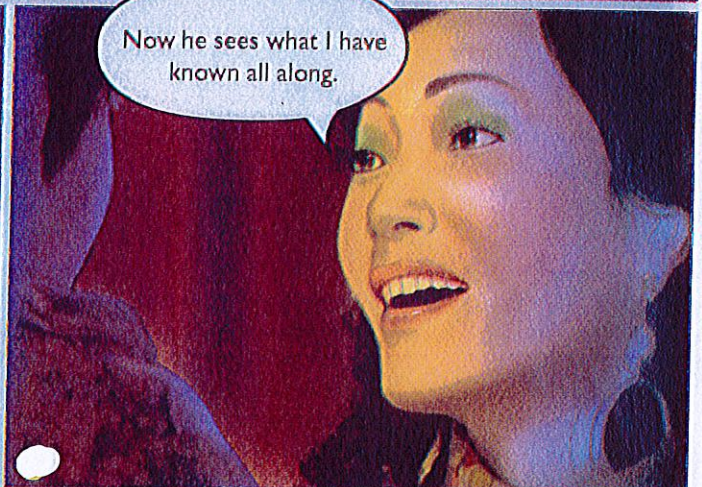

Angela, are you back?

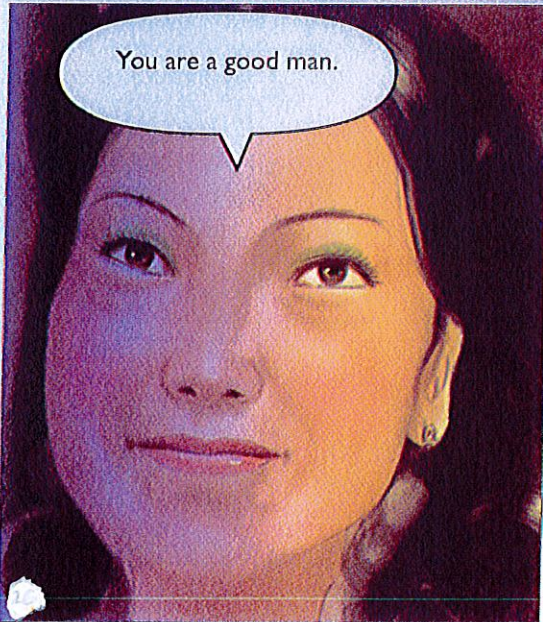

Yes, my love. I am yours. Forever.

But what about your father? Did he say yes?

Now he sees what I have known all along.

You are a good man.

The End